JAPAN READY TO RESCIND TRADE BARS

Foreign Office Says Tokio Wants Same Treatment As Accorded by U.S.

WILL DROP SURTAX IF DOMINION ACTS

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.—Willingness to remove discriminatory imports against Canadian goods, if Canada rescinds the 50 per cent surtax against Japan, was announced in a statement issued by the Foreign Office in Tokyo over the week-end and communicated to the Government here. The Canadian Government was blamed for the existing trade war between the two countries. Following is the statement:
"On September 8, the Canadian Prime Minister, Mr. Bennett, issued a statement to the effect that the Canadian Government cannot accept Japan's requests in relation to the pending questions of trade between the two countries as such a step will threaten her industry and the standard of living of her workers through the threat of goods manufactured in Japan with depreciated currency and cheap labor, which will be intolerable. It will, the statement proceeds, accord to Japan alone a privileged position for her goods in the Canadian market, while the 50 per cent surtax imposed by Japan on Canadian imports constitutes a clear violation of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty of Commerce and Navigation and the Canadian

Mussolini Must Compromise or Face Sanctions

France Decides Definitely to Support Authorizing Article Of Covenant

COMMITTEE DRAFTS NEW PEACE PLAN

GENEVA, Sept. 12 (AP).—Economic and financial sanctions will be voted against Italy by the council of the League of Nations. Havas learned on the highest authority tonight, should Mussolini reject a compromise now being worked out by the five-power committee and resort to war in defiance of the covenant.
France has definitely decided to support the application of article sixteen of the covenant, authorizing sanctions, if it is invoked in case of aggression, as it will be. Enough small powers are behind France and Great Britain, which has consistently advocated such action in the last resort, to assure its victory.
It will take an unanimous vote of the League council to invoke sanctions, apart from the disputants themselves.
Delegates from the Netherlands, Belgium and Sweden, the latter understood to be speaking for the whole Scandinavian bloc, before the assembly today all expressed themselves in favor of the action.

DID NOT WAIT TO BE GAFFED

Sea Serpent, Seventy Feet Long, Narrowly Escaped Fisherman's Harpoon

BOSTON, Sept. 12 (AP).—A Gloucester fishing schooner docked today with an unharmed member of its crew, Adelbert Langthorne. His ship, the Imperator, tied up without the sea serpent which he said so nearly came within his grasp.

SHOWED NO SURPRISE

Langthorne said the serpent either did not see the fishing schooner or, if it did, it manifested no surprise. As its brownish-blue body wriggled past, the fisherman, a veteran of forty years on the banks, said he overcame his surprise and grabbed a harpoon. He was going to get this sea serpent and bring it back, not alive perhaps, but as irrefutable evidence.

Declares League Is Gathering Place of Empire's Opponents

Rev. E. J. Springett, British-Israel World Federation Commissioner in Canada, Flays League of Nations in Public Address Here Last Night

"The League of Nations for the last ten years has been nothing more or less than a convenient meeting place for those nations who hate Great Britain," declared Rev. E. J. Springett, Dominion Commissioner of the British-Israel World Federation, in a public address at the City Temple here last night. His remark was vigorously applauded by an audience of 1,200 persons.

"Great Britain is again keeping through it may be to her hindrance her bond and she is going to stick But," today, the British Empire to the covenants of the League stands naked and defenceless before the world because she has kept her word—and thank God for it," the speaker continued.

WORLD AFFAIRS

Further in his address, Mr. Springett declared that the Ethiopian-Italian dispute was only an incident beginning a series that must culminate, with other incidents, in the great day of God Almighty. "The anti-God nations will come down into the land," Mussolini is trying to establish a general headquarters in Africa with the ultimate purpose of setting into Egypt and Mesopotamia and the Holy Land as the goal," he maintained.

Mr. Springett declared the nations aligned against Great Britain, with the possession of Palestine, would have the key position of the world. The object, he said, was to bring down ruin upon the British Commonwealth of Nations. He stated he would not make any prophecy, but he fully believed hostilities would be avoided for the time being.

THE FUTURE WAR

"We need not fear for the future," Mr. Springett declared. "We are working out His purpose. We often hear the remark, or question, 'What will Canada do?' Ladies and gentlemen, it makes no difference what your politicians say, Canada's position remains the same as it always has. If the Mother-Lion overseas calls for help, you'll answer again the same as you did in 1914."

Mr. Springett was at this point, referring to the stand of the British Empire against the anti-God nations who would, in the future, mass against Palestine.

SOVEREIGN RULE

Of the present, the speaker said: "The time has come when the sovereign rule of man must be replaced by the sovereign rule of God, the King of Kings, Lord of Lords, and the only ruler of princes." The world, he said, was passing through "the shaking down period" when the things that can be shaken will be shaken down, and those that cannot

FOREIGN TRADE POLICY SCORED

Prof. King Gordon Says British Columbia Will Continue to Suffer

British Columbia's export trade has suffered for years because Canada's foreign trade policy is dictated by Eastern manufacturers and financiers, Professor King Gordon, Federal C.C.F. candidate for Victoria, told an audience at St. Mary's Hall last evening. Professor Gordon declared that the province would continue to suffer until the people had some say in Dominion affairs.

Asserting that the capitalistic economic system was going into a tailspin, the speaker offered decreasing world trade figures to support the statement. He believed the twilight of the present system might deepen into night if the people did not pass into the dawn of the C.C.F., which offered them security, co-operation and freedom.

EXPLAINS COMPETITION

Ruthless competition in industry was often found necessary for survival of businesses, he maintained. Even when capitalists became economically independent, they did not cease to operate under a C.C.F. system for the interests of the people instead of for a pure profit motive.

Professor Gordon pointed a gloomy picture of Montreal unemployed on relief refused houses by many landlords and teachers working in Saskatchewan for as low as $5 per week, all because of the wastefulness and stupidity of capitalism. He predicted economic chaos for the United States.

In introducing Professor Gordon and Rev. Robert Connell, M.P., Alfred Carmichael was gratified to know that those connected with the church were paying more attention to the outer life of man. Mr. Connell stated that the C.C.F. stood for the application of Christian ethics and would under no circumstances create a servile state.

SUPPORTING SPEAKERS

Major-General Griesbach is of more than general interest to Victoria, by virtue of his pronounced stand on veterans' affairs in Parliament, and also by reason of war service that commenced with the South African campaign and extended through the whole of the Great War. He is a trenchant, vigorous speaker.

Mr. Maitland is no stranger to Victoria, having served as minister without portfolio in the former Provincial administration, and being known as a Conservative of thirty years' standing.

Mr. Plunkett, member for Victoria in the last House, is seeking reelection on his record of performance, which includes the persistent and unremitting advocacy of Federal undertakings here, leading to allocation of approximately $700,000 worth of work in the Greater Victoria area, including a new Federal building, hydrographic survey shed, renovations at the Victoria postoffice, and extensive changes and additions at the Esquimalt Naval Barracks.

The meeting will be open to the public, and proceedings will be broadcast.

WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN

D. B. Plunkett Will Launch Appeal to Electors of Victoria This Evening

D. B. Plunkett, Federal Conservative candidate in this riding, will open his main campaign in Victoria this evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Supporting him on the platform will be Senator W. A. Griesbach, of Edmonton, a distinguished Canadian soldier, and R. L. Maitland, K.C., of Vancouver, one of the foremost speakers in the Conservative cause.

Hugh Allan, president of the Victoria Conservative Association, will preside at the meeting, timed to commence at 8 o'clock.

At the beginning, Mr. Springett addressed his audience as "citizens of Israel," and asked permission to refute some statements concerning the British-Israel World Federation. "It is not an 'ism' or a sect, and is not opposed to any present-day religious organization. It is not true that we are disrupting the religious institutions. Rather than that, we are strengthening the faith of man and we are bringing back many of those who have drifted away. We are trying to bring hope and comfort to an expectant and troubled people," he said.

"There is no need for the people of the world to be in a state of fear. We are, it is true, living in an age of expectancy, realizing that great changes are taking place. Many are being overcome by a fear that is not much different to what it was 1,900 years ago, but to those who have the understanding mind, there is no infallible guide to all things since mankind emerged from the hand of his Creator in the Bible—the voice of authority," Mr. Springett said.

CITIZENS OF ISRAEL

The pulpit, from which Mr. Springett addressed the large audience, was draped with a Union Jack. Rev. A. deB. Owen offered prayers and read from Scripture.

TO CONTEST B.C. RIDINGS

Those attending tonight's meeting are supporters of the Douglas dividend which must be based upon increased purchasing power—and must not involve increased taxes, now cause inflation nor deprive anyone of his property, it was stated.

The organization being formed has not connection with the Alberta party of Premier Aberhart, from whose programme the Douglas theory varies in certain respects.

MADE CHAIRMAN

Preliminary steps were taken to set up an organization and A. D. Greer, Vancouver consulting engineer and member of the Board of Trade, was made permanent chairman of the organizing committee. No name has yet been chosen for the body.

It was pointed out in this connection that the Douglas Social Credit, British Columbia section, is an economic and educational body whose constitution forbids participation in politics. Constituency organizations for tonight.

INCREASED INDEBTEDNESS

The first act of the new Social Credit Government in Alberta is to secure cash "by borrowing," when it has been thought that all the financial ills of that Province could be solved by the mere process of issuing scrip. Apparently, however, the only way in which the credit of Alberta can be maintained is by the provision of cash at the expense of the other Provinces of the Dominion. The money is to come from the Dominion Government, and already the first instalment is promised. The purpose of Mr. Aberhart's journey to Ottawa is a negotiation of the principles he preached during his election campaign.

The Western Provinces, for some years past, have maintained their credit and have been enabled to carry on by the grace of the Federal Government. They have had a fairly godmother who has provided for their wants, who has filled up some at least of the deficiencies occasioned by their spendthrift zeal. They have done little or nothing themselves to re-establish their finances, and now Mr. Aberhart, the apostle of a new economy, finds that he cannot carry on without cash, and that Alberta is not that cash, and so it must be the Social Credit gospel. This illustration of how realities have to be faced is the ultimate answer to the Social Credit gospel. Any social credit of any kind must be liquidated in terms of cash. Any scheme of the character put into force in Alberta, or anywhere else, must have for its backing the cash resources of the Government wherever tried. There is no such thing as credit that is not finally represented by currency of the State.

The aggregate of borrowings of the Western Provinces from Ottawa since the depression started has been $85,000,000. The loans are ostensibly secured by treasury bills. Alberta's indebtedness under this head amounts to $17,335,000, and now a further $18,000,000 is sought. There is apparently no end to the need of the Western Provinces for borrowings to carry on both essential and unessential services. As to whether those borrowings will ever be repaid is problematical. Most certainly, under a Social Credit regime in Alberta, that Province will become farther than ever from a position to repay its debts to the Dominion Government, especially if it doubles them under the proposed new borrowings. The situation now is that Mr. Aberhart begins his regime finding himself unequal to the task, for the time being, of placing Alberta on an independent credit basis.

THE ACID TEST

From the very earliest times it has been a matter of common remark that it is easier and pleasanter to idealize, speculate, devise theories, and dogmatize about life than to live up to these ideals in actual practice. Also the poet has said that the best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft a-gley, and the man of affairs speaks with fine scorn of those futile farcical philosophies sometimes weave in the secrecy of their cloisters. About forty years ago, in certain circles, there was a good deal of talk about Tolstol. It is a debatable question as to whether at that period the theories of Tolstol or those of Karl Marx were the more popular subject of discussion. Certainly those theories frequently disturbed the current of rational conversation and eclipsed the natural gaily of social intercourse, much in the manner of the aberrant politics and queer economies of today.

A party of idealists living in London in the latter years of the last century became enamored of the principles of Tolstol. Not content with establishing a "brotherhood church" where they could converse freely with, and if possible convert, their fellow-men, they resolved to show their faith by their works and put their theories to the acid test of a practical practice. The modern Socialist in our country, the parlor Socialist in particular, really has no stomach for this sort of thing. He shrinks away from the practical consequences of his theories. He preaches production for use, but practices production for profit. He is all for the brotherhood of man as long as it does not interfere with the propaganda of the class war. He denounces interest and curses the usurer, but pays life insurance premiums to a company which would perish miserably in bankruptcy if it were not for its investments upon an interest basis. The London idealists were not of this type. They really wanted to show that their faith was a real and vital one.

Accordingly they chose for their field of operations a beautiful site in the Cotswold Hills, not far from the source of the Thames, and close to a town of ten thousand people, famous as the centre of the West of England broadcloth manufacturers. A legal difficulty arose at the start. These good men did not believe in owning private property. Private property was, in their opinion, wrong and wicked and sinful. How, then, were they to get legal possession of the land that they had selected? After several schemes had been suggested and rejected, three men heroically volunteered to suppress their moral principles for the moment and do the wicked act of allowing their names to appear in the legal documents; but only on the condition that when the necessary formalities were completed the deeds should be committed to the flames of a bonfire, and this was done.

They were now ready for action. They built habitations, baked bread, cultivated the soil, grew vegetables and ate them on vegetarian principles, adopted reformed dress, and lived together in great amity as a community, sharing everything. They strove to improve their speech by saying "thou" instead of "you," and to cultivate their minds on a course of Emerson and Ruskin, and thus a pleasant and profitable time was spent. Certain members whose ethical sense was not too acute were chosen to perform the unpleasant task of dealing with the outside world in money matters such as the purchase of stamps for letters and the like.

They made heroic efforts to live up to the principle, "to everyone according to his need." The land was not theirs by right, but merely in law. It was in their eyes free land, and when visitors or new adherents came they were given the freedom of the colony. The newcomers could cultivate bits of land and strangers might even graze their sheep upon it. The active and enthusiastic members worked honestly and hard. Others, however, worked at a slower pace and with ever-increasing intervals of rest and relaxation. Some of the latter, indeed, contracted the habit of devoting their leisure to private work of no value to the community at the same time living well off the efforts of the faithful. Of course it was contrary to sound doctrine to attempt anything like compulsion, and there was no authority anywhere. The experiment thus furnished another illustration of the fact that the scientific backbone of social psychology is the problem of authority. However, after three years the colony was bankrupt. Communism was abandoned and the land was divided up into small holdings.

A brief description of the colony as it now exists is given in the current issue of The London Spectator. It appears that the people are housed in about fifty bungalows, arranged on a highly unsymmetrical plan. There are some handicrafts and there is an air of unbusinesslike mixed with primitiveness and complacency as if the inhabitants were still nourishing their souls upon the memories of thirty years ago and dwelling sentimentally upon the tattered remnants of a discarded ideal.

POLITICAL PROPAGANDA

Apparently the radio as a disseminator of political propaganda is not a success. It reaches only a small percentage of the people, that is to say, there is only such a percentage that will listen to political speeches over the air. It still remains the privilege of the newspapers to educate the people on the political issues of the day, either through the medium of reporting political speeches or in other ways. In Ontario a small test has been made to find out how many listeners there are to political utterances. It was found that on the occasion of Mr. Mackenzie King's third radio talk, out of 188 persons who were surveyed 84 were absent from home; 8 had no radio, 85 did not have their radios in use, 21 were not listening to Mr. King, and only 10 out of the total number were listening to the Liberal leader. The election campaign is in full swing, and it might be supposed that those who have radios would be enthusiastically drinking in all the wisdom falling from the lips of politicians. There is no means of compelling people to listen to political speeches. Most of those with radios prefer musical or comedy programmes and will continue to prefer them. They are satisfied to read what they want to know about politics in the newspapers. Mr. H. H. Stevens has shown wisdom in this respect. His reconstruction platform was given to the public through the press. Much money is being unnecessarily wasted on radio broadcasts in the present election campaign.

No newspaper of the Dominion has been more caustic in its comment on the recent Alberta election than Le Soleil of Quebec. It says: "After the flood" that is the cynical motto of dishonest egotists. To obtain money at any cost without the least intention of ever paying it back is what a mad imagination suggests to inexperienced youth. Labor, thrift and honesty are means much too slow for those who wish to escape the sanctions of Divine and natural laws. This immoral system has become the accepted rule in Alberta public life, due to the error of an electoral majority which pins its hopes to a system of free distribution of a non-existent wealth."

GREEN TWILIGHT

Green twilight under the mountain oak:
The breeze from the river tastes of smoke.
The day's last ripple comes to the land
But no sound breaks where the ripple broke.

This is the earth's economy:
Dark after light so effortlessly
In the green gloom, deep in the gloom,
And one lone thrush in a deep wood's tree.
—Charles Mallam, in The New York Sun.

Whoever falls to turn aside the ills of life by prudent forethought must submit to fulfill the course of destiny.—Schiller.

Save Our Speakers

Victoria audiences are critical, on the word of Premier Hepburn. His remarks came after an audience at the Royal Victoria Theatre had laughed three speakers into silence inside of fifteen minutes. Premier Hepburn found the laughs were "with" him, which makes all the difference. Whether an audience can be more cruel than the boss, which were "not" absent from another part of the same programme, or the over-ripe tomatoes which once used to get music hall comedians in the days before market control—S.G.

Pleasant Percy!

There are lots of things to cover at an exhibition besides the general run of stories. P.C.R. of this column found out the other day. When at the fair he was given the assignment of finding the mother of a lost little girl. P.C.R. traveled over more territory and talked more about nothing to keep the "child" amused than he has done for years. After a long search P.C.R. ended his commission by turning the little girl over to a friend of her mother's for safe-keeping. Among the things the English-speaking peoples have to learn is that there are many good ways of speaking it.

Let us hope there may always be some left who will still speak "The King's English."

BAND CONCERTS AND FAIR

Sir—It would have seemed good policy on the part of the tourist committee to withhold its band concerts during the week of the fair. It has had all summer to give its entertainments and it seems hardly necessary that they continue during the seven days that the fair operates in the year. Also many exhibitors at the fair have donated money to the Tourist Trade Development movement. Now, if these exhibitors would with the citizens of Victoria draw from their exhibits and displays at the fair which they have spent a great deal of time and money to put together.

I would like to suggest that the City Council give consideration to this matter; likely some of its members are unaware that the fair is in progress.

TULIP BLOOMS

Sir—I noticed in your "Believe It or Not" by Ripley, a few weeks back, that a certain gentleman in one of the Eastern states had a tulip bloom with six blossoms on the one stem. Now we have them by the hundreds, and as many as nine blossoms from one bulb. We would like to hear the opinion of our great tulip growers, whether this is a detriment or otherwise.

FACTS WORTH CONSIDERATION

Sir—Having visited the Fair grounds of this city on Saturday night there came to my attention some facts which contradict the good spirit of Victoria. First, on the grandstand children were running with their dirty shoes all over the seats where other people must sit, thus soiling their clothes. In one instance boys were sitting with their feet on the back of the seat immediately in front of them, rubbing their soles on a lady's dress. Next I witnessed the throwing of two eggs, or something similar, at a speaker among the midway people. One of the girls, a Miss Cazan, remarks were made by a boy less than ten years of age—that she should be a criminal, and by another one that she should be a murderer. Many other remarks to this effect could be heard throughout the grounds. Such conditions are bad, opposing the efforts of the good citizens in their advertising and the money spent on the uplift of this city for its prosperity. Acts like these reflect the spirit of the child's soul also the parents and their house.

Why cannot parents of such children take up their responsibilities as guardians and either keep them off the exhibition grounds, or go with them supervising their activities, but, better yet, educate them at home.

Ontario hotels are up-to-date. According to Premier Hepburn they provide bricks for guests to smash mirrors in the bedroom. Premier Hepburn has the pleasing faculty of making venerable jokes appropriate to what he is talking about. The senior member for Victoria in the Legislature paid a flying visit to the Capital City on Tuesday afternoon and evening—R.A.G.

Aldermen, Babes and Moustaches

One of the aldermen returned from his annual hibernation in the country with lips badly burned by creosote. It appears he was messing about with house foundations peppered with the preservative and several times among people thus improving their own welfare and that of others. Subdue the sprout of evil in childhood; then no tears need be shed for the child when grown to adulthood and many sorrows will be prevented. There would be no necessity for the Government to find jails to house such ill-bred children. Neither Government nor legislation is at fault for the present condition; the root of evil lies behind the doors of the homes where too many children are not properly reared and educated. No reform system can overcome this unless parents co-operate. "Fair condition exists all over the world—the reason for human destruction. True enough, they are only kids," but they grow up and their actions form into habits.

Might Do as Well

Glimping over an Eastern paper the other day I came across an interesting item about a twenty-month-old boy being able to write fluently 100 English words. The lad hailed from Minneapolis and is called the super-genius boy of America. There's only one thing for this youngster to do when he grows up and that is winter politics. What a great politician he should make, if the platform boys of today are examples—J.D.

Steamboat Inspection—E. W. Victor, Dominion steamboat inspector, examined Mr. Brown's new 120-ton tugboat, which passed inspection very creditably. Mr. Victor leaves on Monday morning on the steamer Nanette for his annual inspection on the East Coast.

More Nursery—J. Moss has leased the 100-acre nursery from Port View Nurseries, for the purpose of a nursery, and is about to set out choice seedlings of all kinds, shrubbery and flowers. The grounds are extensive and very fertile, and the lease intends to embark largely in the business.

Jumping Events Highly Praised By Show Judge

Dr. M. Sparrow Declares He Has Never Seen Better Jumping Than That on Last Night's Horse Show Programme—Mrs. Carley Wins Highest Honors in Course Feature

"I NEVER saw better jumping than in the Victoria course event tonight," Dr. M. Sparrow, V.S., judge, declared at the conclusion of last night's Horse Show programme at the Willows. "You wouldn't see better jumping in the New York shows, and I have never seen better jumping at any show that I have attended," the judge continued, drawing particular attention to the triple bar jump.

DIFFICULT JUMPS

This event had eight difficult jumps, and Mrs. Carley took first and second prize honors, with her Chenango and Beggar Boy, respectively. Miss J. Rutherford, on Nevada, placed third.

During the evening, Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie presented a cup to Alex McKenzie, aged eighty-one years, oldest breeder of thoroughbreds in the province, and who owns the oldest thoroughbred stallion in British Columbia, namely Tuscan. In presenting the cup, on behalf of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, Dr. Tolmie paid tribute to the pioneering spirit of Mr. McKenzie, and also to the great service he had rendered this province in fostering of thoroughbreds.

FIRST APPEARANCE

Another interesting feature of the evening was the performance of Miss N. Macfarlane, who placed second in the light-weight hunter class. This was her first appearance in a big Summer show, and many commented upon her splendid riding ability, particularly when she appeared later in the hunting team class with Mrs. Carley and Miss T. Todd. She displayed wonderful control with a spirited horse.

In the light-weight hunter class, Miss T. Todd, on Chenango, placed first. Miss Macfarlane was second, and Mrs. Carley third.

TWENTY-SIXTH SHOWING

The programme opened with the four-horse team event. This was won by the Crystal Dairy, Vancouver, with J. W. Munroe, Carstairs, Alta, second and R. Thorburn, Vancouver, third. Mr. Thorburn has been showing here for twenty-six years.

Miss Patsy Jackson, on Kitty, won in the children's riding class, in which there was plenty of competition. Miss V. Yarrow, on King, was second, and Miss E. Macdonald, on Molly, third. There was some good riding by Master J. MacLure, on Rufus, and Miss M. Ford, on Piper.

FINE JUMPING

Another fine jumping event was the hunter class, won by Ian Ross, who showed great confidence and took the jumps with ease. Monty Armstrong, on Hurrah, was a close second, while Miss J. Rutherford placed third, on Nevada. Gold Coin, ridden by Miss J. Chatham, drew considerable comment. This was the first appearance of this horse and rider in Victoria.

Master Chum Carley won the children's pony class, while Miss Patsy Jackson and Miss Rosemarie James were second and third, respectively.

A fine display of horsemanship was given in the hunting teams class, in which Miss J. Rutherford, Miss B. Bechtel and Miss D. Pooley, riding Nevada, Sir Wilfred and Silver, respectively, placed first. Mrs. Carley, Miss T. Todd and Miss N. Macfarlane, riding Beggar Boy, Chenango and Sonny Boy, were second. Third place went to Miss D. Pooley, Ian Ross and Reg Shanks, riding Crowe, Omar and Evening Star. George Allison looked after arrangements for the programme, and Mr. Carley was ringmaster.

Ethiopian Army Constructs "Canal"

Working Under the Glare of An Intensely Burning Sun, These Natives Construct a Canal Not Far From the Frontier of Italian Eritrea. The Canal Will Have Great Strategic Value in Time of War. Italian Troops in the Vicinity Are Said to Have Already Crossed the Boundary Line.

sees firmly in favor of the British stand that the covenant must be upheld and all members share the responsibility of maintaining peace. England has been won over to French opposition to use of military and naval sanctions, which might easily provoke a European war.

"She has definitely decided not to use her navy to close the Suez Canal against Italian military traffic. Unanimous support of the committee may not be necessary, it was learned. If it is approved by a majority of the council, it will be presented to Italy and Ethiopia. Acceptance by the latter country is taken for granted. If Italy refuses, and begins aggressive action in East Africa, the council will be called into special session to vote sanctions."

It is understood the agreement of economic and financial sanctions and abandonment of military and naval sanctions was reached in conversations between Pierre Laval, French Premier and Foreign Minister, and Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary.

Premier Laval's speech before the League assembly, scheduled for today, was postponed until tomorrow, when he is expected to announce officially France's support of the policy of sanctions.

Before the League assembly today delegates of smaller nations spoke vigorously in favor of action to support the League covenant.

BELGIAN SUPPORT

Belgium's support was pledged by Premier Paul van Zeeland, who said: "Belgium will not be found wanting in the obligations developing on it from the covenant." He described Sir Samuel Hoare's address yesterday as "a precious guarantee" of League support for small countries.

The council committee of five asked its sub-committee to work out a first draft of the constructive compromise which it has been asked to submit to Italy and Ethiopia.

Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the League, received from Premier Laval a proposal that the League's budget for the next financial year be reduced by 10 per cent.

AMPLIFIES PROPOSALS

GENEVA, Sept. 12 (AP).—The League of Nations' Five-Power conciliation committee today instructed its experts to draft a definite plan for peace between Italy and Ethiopia. The scheme will amplify the proposals submitted jointly by Great Britain and France at Paris and rejected by the Italians.

To some extent it is more precise than the Paris proposals but the differences, it is understood, are mainly in form. No proposal is under consideration by the committee, which would interfere with the political independence of Ethiopia.

THE PLAN CONTEMPLATES:

1. As frontier powers, Great Britain, France and Italy are to give collective assistance to Ethiopia.

2. The work of reorganization is to extend to economic, financial, commercial and constitutional development, foreign settlement, modernization of administrative services, anti-slavery measures, and frontier and other police services.

3. Free activity of foreigners in the economic sphere is to be respected.

4. Particular account is to be taken of the special interests of Italy without prejudice to the recognized rights of France and the United Kingdom.

5. The possibility of territorial adjustments between Italy and Ethiopia is not excluded.

The committee itself will meet Saturday or Monday to consider the scheme which it will then submit to the League Council. Rumors have reached Geneva that Premier Mussolini may now be willing to adopt a more conciliatory attitude towards the proposals than he adopted at the Paris conference. However, so far as the committee is advised, Italy's attitude remains unchanged.

NOT TO BE SWERVED

ROME, Sept. 12 (AP).—Italy, well-informed sources said tonight, regards war with Ethiopia as inevitable and will not be swerved by the position France may take at Geneva. But at the same time Rome was uneasy over the forthcoming speech to the League of Nations by Premier Pierre Laval. These sources said Premier Mussolini would not swerve from his purpose of a campaign in Africa even if France should wholeheartedly fall in step with Britain's endorsement of peace and the League Covenant.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP).—The United States reminded Italy and Ethiopia of the Kellogg-Briand Peace Pact tonight in a strong appeal against war.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull in a public statement said the American Government asks those countries "which appear to be contemplating armed hostilities" to "weigh most solicitously the declaration and pledge given in the Pact of Paris."

Urges Women to Use Franchise in Federal Election

D. B. Plunkett and C. H. Dickie Address Well-Attended Meeting of Conservative Women—Hon. R. B. Bennett Is Extolled by Speakers

URGING Conservative women to rally round the party standard and bring out every vote possible in the forthcoming Federal election, D. B. Plunkett, Federal member for Victoria in the last Parliament, made a strong appeal for support of Premier R. B. Bennett and his policies, when addressing the Victoria Conservative Women's Club last evening. C. H. Dickie, Conservative representative of the Nanaimo Federal riding, also spoke.

MOMENTOUS ELECTION

The forthcoming election was the most momentous in the history of Canada, Mr. Plunkett said. There were many parties and policies, and it would be in the interest of every citizen to give serious and earnest thought to the policies of each. Mr. Plunkett extolled Premier Bennett. As a leader he looked to the future of the Dominion, and was again placing proposals that would redound to the betterment of the country as a whole.

Speaking of the relief camps, Mr. Plunkett reminded the audience that there had been no idea of making these permanent institutions when they started; they were instituted merely as an emergency measure to provide a home for unemployed single men so that they would not be cast on the streets.

Government responsibility in looking after the unemployed had enormously increased during the last two or three decades, with corresponding criticism. Mr. Plunkett expressed the view that the depression was lifting. By comparison, with some other countries, Canada, he said, had done fairly well by its young people.

RETURN PREMIER

dow statements in Canada." Mayor McGee warned that the programme means inflation. He estimated that retiring pensions for persons over sixty years of age "would cost at least $300,000,000 a year, and other proposed social reforms will run into enormous sums."

WILL BE COSTLY

He declared that recent orders-in-council fixing the minimum price of wheat at 87-1/2c a bushel, without power to control the world price, will probably cost the Government large sums.

SYMPATHY ASSURED

While official comment was denied, there was around to believe that a section of the Cabinet will support the request for modification of the British Columbia liquor regulations sympathetically.

NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

"The depression is not over yet," McGee said when commenting on the question of National Government. "The problem of maintaining law and order during the next few years will tax the financial resources of governments. The situation in Vancouver is still serious. We are putting on a bold front but it is like whistling in the dark to keep up our courage."

APPEALS MADE FOR NEW DEAL

Miss G. Hitchins-Smith and E. L. Bishop Give Youth Views to Clubmen

Members of the Rotary Club yesterday were given the opportunity of hearing from two young people the plea of youth for something in the line of a new deal.

Miss G. Hitchins-Smith said the desire of the young graduates from the schools was to become good citizens. There was an inherent and proper desire on their part to marry and—raise—families, maintaining the situation which presented itself today forbade that course and the nation was losing out in the matter.

The speaker stated that if the youth had no outlook in life, there was no outlook for women building up ideal homes.

MUST BE NEW DEAL
The young people of the Island did not lack courage. "Love makes the world go round," Miss Hitchins-Smith said. "If, however, things were to be righted, there must be a new deal for Vancouver Island."

There was, she declared, $7,000,000 a year paid into the Government by Vancouver Island. Out of this $2,000,000 was put back in this part by the Government. "The Government was a business proposition. Why should the people let the Government exploit them?"

The speaker suggested the trial of the reversing of the order of things prevailing. Let the Government expend $5,000,000 out of that collected here on the Island and distribute the other $2,000,000 elsewhere.

"We get what we demand in this world," said Miss Hitchins-Smith. "If we demand bread and water, we'll only get that. If Vancouver Island demands a new deal strong enough, it will get it."

SECOND APPEAL
The other speaker from the youth of the city was E. L. Bishop, who took the position that if Vancouver Island were properly developed there would be employment for all the young people.

Mr. Bishop pointed out that out of 235 graduating from the Victoria High School, only twenty-one, or less than one-tenth, secured employment. He combatted the idea that the youths that were graduating from the schools lacked initiative.

At a contradiction to any such charge, he referred to the fact that a number of young persons had, by their own initiative, succeeded in raising enough money to go to the Normal School or to college.

WEALTH DISTRIBUTION
The improper distribution of wealth, it was generally agreed, was the cause of the trouble faced today. Mr. Bishop asserted. The reason why there were no jobs offering was attributed to the fact that capitalists were not opening up the natural industries which were controlled by capital.

The remedy for mal-distribution of wealth was a new distribution, he

Mrs. F. G. Berton Gives Address on Dawson as She First Saw It

At the Victoria Truth Centre Hall, Fort Street, last night, Mrs. F. G. Berton spoke on "Dawson City, Yesterday and Today," before members of the Victoria and Island Branch, Canadian Authors' Association.

The speaker described the gold town as she first saw it at the end of the last century, and related tales of the struggles for wealth that she had seen and heard of over a period of years while living at Dawson.

KNEW ROBERT SERVICE
Mrs. Berton took her audience in fancy up to Skagway, thence by rail to White Horse, Yukon Territory, from where they boarded a side-wheel steamer to rush down the swift Yukon River to Dawson. She described the city as it was today, and as it looked to her when she knew Robert Service, the poet of the Yukon.

Miss Dorothy Grighton, a member of the branch, gave an interesting and instructive craft talk, "Writing and Marketing Stories and Plays for Children."

SPEAKS OF POEMS
William Dalton, well-known Vancouver businessman, gave an informal talk on poems written by his wife, Mrs. Annie Charlotte Dalton, M.B.E.

Miss Phyllis Deaville, accompanied by Miss Audrey B. Denis Wood, rendered several songs. The words of one selection were written by Miss Wood, and received special commendation in the Montreal poetry competition conducted last Spring. Two recitations were given by organization.

Little Stories for Bedtime
The Warblers Arrive
By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

If there is one family of feathered friends who bothers Peter Rabbit more than another it is the Warbler family. "So many of them come together and they are so everlasting about the move that a fellow doesn't have a chance to look at one long enough to recognize him," he complained to Jenny Wren. It was an early Spring morning and the Old Orchard was fairly alive with little birds no bigger than Jenny herself. And such restless little folks as they were! Not for an instant were they still.

Peter watched them flitting from tree to tree and twig to twig, darting out into the air and back again, and all the time keeping up an endless, chattering mingled with little snatches of song. No sooner would Peter fix his eyes on one than another wholly different in appearance would take its place. Only occasionally would he see one whom he recognized. Usually this was one who would stay for the nesting season. But the majority of them would stop only for a day or two, being bound farther north to make their Summer homes.

Jenny Wren did not seem to look upon them wholly with favor. Perhaps she was a little bit envious. You see, compared with the bright colors of some of them, Jenny was a very plain, small person indeed. Then, too, there were so many of them and they were so busy catching all kinds of small worms and insects that perhaps Jenny was a little fearful that they would pull enough for her to get her own meals easily.

"I don't see what they stop here for," scolded Jenny. "They could just as well go somewhere else where they would not be taking the food out of the mouths of honest folks who are here to stay all Summer. Did you ever in your life see such uneasy people? They don't keep still an instant. It makes me tired, actually tired, just to watch them."

For the life of him Peter couldn't help chuckling. You know Jenny Wren herself is a very restless, uneasy person. As for Peter he was thoroughly enjoying this visit of the Warblers, despite the fact that

"Dramas in Silhouette" Revival of Ancient Art

John Delisle Parker Entertains Audience With Fascinating Shadow-Show of Fictional and Historical Characters—B. C. Incidents

Under the title of "Dramas in Silhouette," John Delisle Parker, well-known French-American artist, is again reviving the ancient art of the "Shadow Show." Last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker, Transal Road, he gave for a few specially invited guests a preview performance of an entertainment that will be seen in the course of the coming months by a number of clubs and other organizations.

SEVEN EPISODES
There were in all seven episodes, each picturing some fictional or actual historical happening. First was "The Nativity," and in turn followed "In Old St. Augustin," with two scenes, the serene and that showing the buccaners sacking the town; "Vancouver Island Before the White Man Came," also in two scenes, the first depicting Indian life, with war canoes, while hunting, the pursuit of an escaping Indian slave, and the second showing the arrival of Captain Vancouver, and "The Coming of the C.P.R.," "The first train in this picture a British Columbia mining camp in 1866, and afterwards was shown Kamloops as it appeared in 1917, 1886, when the first trans-continental train arrived. The detail for this is based on material supplied by the British Columbia Archives and the C.P.R.

Three more episodes followed after a ten-minute intermission. The first was a comedy, as suggested in the title, "When the Circus Comes to Town," introducing monkey cages, lions and other fearsome or comic characters. Then came "Drake Goes West," featuring at that time the great fleet of twenty-eight vessels and third expedition to the Spanish Main. In one scene, most impressive of all the "episodes" was "Joan of Arc," the introductory part of the silhouette showing "The Maid" at the head of her army leaving Blois for the battle of Orléans, and the second part depicting her triumphant entry into Orléans. Several scenes of figures were represented in this last alone in the quadrants of cavalry, the crowds, etc.

FITTING MUSIC
All the accompanying detail was most carefully thought out. In the "Joan of Arc" picture a stirring trumpet march was used. For the first trans-continental train at Kamloops there were the appropriate sounds of whistles, clanging bells, the puffing of the engine, the playing of the band. The lighting, too, lent character to each picture, being particularly effective in the "Drake Goes West" and "Joan of Arc" in the former magnificent cloud and sea effects being devised.

University Women Vote Small Loan

Carrying out its policy of helping deserving students, the University Women's Club, at its first meeting of the season, held yesterday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A., voted a loan of $200 to a University of British Columbia student.

Anticipating the reimbursement of the club treasury, which is just acquiring itself of $350 in bursary and similar obligations, the members began yesterday to plan the annual tea in aid of the funds. This, it was decided, will take place early in October, at a date to be announced later.

Dr. Olga Jardine, the president, was in the chair, and in response to the Winter's programme several tentative recommendations were made, one being for the formation of a study group to take up modern poetry of current events. Miss Mary Scott, the recording secretary, read the minutes of the last general meeting, and Miss L. Archibald, acting for the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Norman Cook, who was unavoidably absent, read some correspondence.

Tea was served prior to the business session, when a number of new members were welcomed. About fifty were present.

Vita glass may replace the ordinary window material in a number of city schools if an experiment to be conducted by the school board produces the desired results. Window frames in one of the primary classes at Sir James Douglas School are to be fitted with the new composition.

It is claimed that Vita glass admits 25 per cent more ultra-violet rays than ordinary glass, and is therefore beneficial to young children. Before deciding to make the test, the school board was supplied with information on schools in the United States and Germany which have found the new glass an asset to children's health.

A pompous alderman who objected to the inclusion of a licensed victualler on the watch committee said the matter might be summed up in one sentence: "The membership of the watch committee must be above suspicion like Potiphar's wife."

STORMY LOVE

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE

CHAPTER XL

As Lia started through the door, she saw Val's "great adventure," the delicate tinkle of the Venetian bracelet reached his ears and Val stretched forth a quick hand to stop her. Holding her wrist, he removed the glass circlets and dropped them on the hall table. After a moment she shrugged but did not demur. Then they went out together and entered the car.

Once away from the town they sped through the wooded country, side that was dotted with the clearings of small chicken ranches and berry farms. The fair weather had already already sent a powdering of dust over the wild currant and yew that bordered the road. The air was fragrant with the ancient smell of wood smoke and new earth, and growing things. In the timber the sloping ground beneath the tall trees cascaded with rhododendrons, bursting into torrents of pink and orchid bloom.

Lia pulled off her hat and opened the window beside her. "It is rather nice this morning," she admitted. "I'm glad now I came." She began to hum a gay little air and she slipped over closer to Val and tucked a small hand into the crook of his arm.

When a ferry had transported them across an arm of the canal they turned south and came in less than an hour to a postoffice and handful of houses, where Val brought the car to a stop and descended from his seat. "I want to get some smokes," he explained as he started away. "Be back in a minute."

The girl leaned back against the cushions to idly watch the train of laden pack-horses that waited before the square-fronted general store. After a time Val emerged again, lighted a cigarette, climbed into the car and started on their way once more. But they had not gone half a mile along the highway until he swung suddenly into an abandoned logging road, where he stopped the engine. His face was grave, his mouth set in a determined line. He took a deep drag of his cigarette before he met Lia's questioning stare. "I'm doing a pretty difficult thing, Lia," he said abruptly. "And I want you to hear me out before you start the fireworks. That's Towser's mill back there," he nodded in that direction, "and that pack train in front of the general store is waiting for us. I telephoned last night and made my arrangements with Towser. There is a bay in the back of the car with all the things you'll need for the next two weeks. We are spending my leave at Paradise Lake."

Lia sat erect, her eyes silk-fringed curves of glittering gold. "Oh, no! I'm not going," she said sharply, a flush spreading beneath the pale gold of her skin. "I told you last night I wouldn't."

"This is one time you'll do as I tell you," he said quietly. "I won't go on living as we have been. There is something not right between us. We must work this thing out. And I believe we'll do it best away by ourselves."

"You can't force me to go with you!" he voice rose. "I'll scream added and under the guidance of Towser and a youth called Bud the trail led at first through an old timber slashing, and here salmonberry thickets and delicate birch and Japanese maples softened the field where mighty forest monarchs had fallen before the woodman's axe. Further on, in marshy places could be glimpsed bog orchids and the yellow cups of skunk cabbage. Sometimes the grass along the way was frosted with the fragile lace of Stars of Bethlehem.

They had left the open spaces and had come suddenly into the

"Are there—wild animals where we are going?"

"Some, lady. There's deer. And don't be afraid 'f you hear bear snuffin' around the place at night. They're a few cougar up this way, too. They're ugly customers close to, but they won't bother you none 'less you go wanderin' off after dark, which I guess you ain't settin' to do." He turned to Val, "Fetch a gun along?"

"Only a revolver."

"Thought you might not have a rifle so I brought one for you. No 'mountain' you understand, but it's a ways open season on varmints; and heavy timber when Towser said, "Lucky we could give you the cabin on such short notice. I have five of 'em up there around the lake, but this is the only one we've put in commission thus early in the season. Little later on all the cabins'll be rented straight through until the last of September. We got this one all set two weeks ago when we packed in a fishin' party. We packed 'em out again just last Friday. Well, all we had to do this mornin' was get together your grub and the like. Right pretty place, Paradise Lake. 'S long's the trail ain't well broke yet, it'll take us four-five hours to make it, I guess."

The going was hard. As the pack train jogged slowly on its climb, the bull of the lead horse jangled monotonously. Sometimes there seemed no way ahead, but the experienced Towser always managed to get through. Once Lia asked for a cigarette, and when Val started to comply the old man snapped, "Noshin' doin', young feller. It's not wise smokin' in the timber. Not 'till you get to the lake, an' then be sure you both watch your step about live bulls an' matches. A forest fire's a easy nough thing to start, but it takes most a act of the Lord to put it out again."

In the mid-afternoon something crashed through the brush near the trail and the horses started nervously. Lia, her voice shaking, cried, don't go too far away from camp without your gun, young feller, even if there ain't no real danger."

Lia's lips had gone white. "I won't move a step further," she insisted. "You can't make me go to this terrible place. Take me home, do you hear?"

Towser and Bud, staring straight ahead, rode forward, while Val dropped behind with the rebellious girl. "Cal'm down, baby," he said quietly.

"We've got to see this through now and you must be a good sport. Nothing is going to harm you. Every Summer when I was a youngster, my dad and I went off into the woods like this. Please trust my judgment. I think you'll love this experience when you get through hating it—and me."

Lia looked exhausted and Val himself was bone weary when they passed the rough corral and camp to which Towser and Bud would return after unloading their freight and passengers. Here the two men and their animals would spend the night and get an early start for their trip back to the mill. Some five miles past this camp and at about four o'clock in the afternoon they came suddenly out of the timber and laid their first breath-taking sight of the lake. It was like an unfaceted sapphire of deepest, most brilliant blue. From its circular shores the dense green forest swept back into high and yet higher levels. Overhead wispy white horse-tails of cloud decked across an azure sky that was broken by the jagged up-thrusts of snow-capped mountain peaks.

Beneath the tall firs, a little back from the lake, sat the substantial cabin of bark-covered logs. Three steps led up to the broad porch and across its front were fastened the antlers of deer and elk.

"DINKY" CURRENT AT THE DOMINION

Jackie Cooper Plays Leading Role in Poignant Child-Drama—Strong Cast

The poignant griefs of childhood, its inarticulate romance, its robust joys, its thrills and its laughter, have been gathered into a great film play, "Dinky," in which Warner Bros. have starred Jackie Cooper, and for which they have assembled a remarkable cast of child stars.

Manager Denham has booked this attraction for the Dominion Theatre today and declares that it is filled with heart throbs, laughs and real drama.

Jackie Cooper, remembered for his work in "Skippy," "Sooky," "The Champ," "The Bowery" and other film successes, has the role of a mainly little chap whose widowed mother sent him to a military school located next to an orphanage, in which he is eventually an inmate.

His orphan-girl sweetheart is played by Betty Jean Hanes, and his pals are George Ernest, Edith Peters and Sidney Miller. His special chum is portrayed by Jimmy Butler, with Richard Quine in the role of the juvenile "villain."

Among the grown-ups in the picture are Mary Astor in the role of Jackie's mother, Roger Pryor, Henry Armetta, Clay Clement, Florence Fair, Joseph Crehan, Addison Richards and James Burke.

COLUMBIA One of Frank Capra's theories of motion picture making is to cast actors who in real life are actually the characters they portray on the screen. He has done this with a vengeance in one instance in "Broadway Bill," starring Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy, showing this week at the Columbia Theatre. The actor is "Kay" Robinson, who, with Frank Halliday, has played a detective in five successive Capra productions. Robinson is a retired detective lieutenant of the Los Angeles police force and one of the best-known peace officers in the United States.

COURT ASKED TO SETTLE TROUBLE

with a counter-charge in which assault is alleged by Mr. Thorne against Mr. Cocking. After occupying most of the afternoon in the examination of witnesses, the case was adjourned until this afternoon at 2 o'clock. P. C. Elliott appeared for Mr. Cocking, while W. T. Strath acted as counsel for Mr. Thorne.

According to the evidence, there appeared to have been no open animosities between the two, who are neighbors in Brentwood, up to the time of the trouble which formed the basis of the court action on August 12. Some little rivalry in the matter of taking out fishermen in boats appeared to have led to the trouble.

Mr. Cocking contends that Mr. Thorne abused him in language directed against him and also struck him two blows, causing him to fall. On the other hand, Mr. Thorne takes the position that the aggressor was Mr. Cocking.

BIG PROGRAMME

With the announcement from Washington recently that the National Automobile Board had appropriated $74,000,000 of Works Progress Administration funds for the city of Los Angeles, harbor officials there see a speedy launching of the harbor improvement programme.

The programme included the construction of a huge graving dock 1,000 feet long, which will cost $5,000,000 and will be equipped to handle the largest ships. In all, $14,000,000 will be spent on the harbor programme.

Lloyd's Register for 1935-36 lists 31,000 ships. It comprises all sea-going vessels of 100 tons or more and similar Great Lakes tonnage. During the last twelve months there has been a decrease in the steam tonnage owned in the world of 1,330,640 tons, an increase of 700,165 tons in the motor tonnage and a decrease in the tonnage of sailing vessels and non-propelled craft of 60,165 tons, making a net decrease of 690,640 tons in the total tonnage for the world. Between June, 1933, and June, 1934, there was a net decrease of 2,343,573 tons.

Japanese Shipping Circles Are Disturbed

Kobe, Japan, Sept. 12.—Kobe shipping circles are buzzing with excitement over private messages to the effect that United States Steamship Lines plan to place large, fast vessels in the trans-Pacific service.

The reports indicated the ships would be capable of making the Seattle-Yokohama crossing in five days, causing some Japanese shipowners to envision possibility of a commercial steamship building race. The source of the messages was not disclosed.

PHILATELIC OPPORTUNITYPan-American Airways Accepting Covers for Round-
Trip to Guam

Philatelists will have a fine opportunity presented almost immediately to obtain carriage of first covers on the Pan-American Airways round-trip survey flight from California to Guam, scheduled for the latter part of this month, according to an announcement of Postmaster William H. McCarthy, of San Francisco, and V. A. Kropff.

Inquiries received in the traffic office of Pan-American Airways indicate there is great interest not only in the United States but throughout the world among philatelists in the proposal to carry first covers on this first round trip to Guam.

HEAVY VOLUME

In response to many requests, the second assistant Postmaster-General sanctioned the carrying of philatelic mail on the round trip of the survey flight and Fred Laidlaw, expert on philatelic mail, from the New York office of Pan-American Airways, is now in San Francisco to co-operate with the postmaster and superintendent of airmail in handling the heavy volume of first covers that will clear through the San Francisco postoffice.

One-way covers may originate in San Francisco, Honolulu or Guam, and round-trip covers only at San Francisco and Honolulu. The fee for one-way covers is $1.25, and for round-trip covers, $2.50. One-way covers will receive two cancellations, and round-trip covers, three cancellations.

In no case is postage to be affixed by sender to the cover itself. This will be accomplished by Pan-American Airways and the cost of the postage is included in the established rates. Covers should be in the hands of Pan-American Airways, 427 Post Street, San Francisco, California, not later than the evening of September 15, or later if announced.

Large Pilchard
Is Preserved at Nanaimo Museum

A PILCHARD believed to be larger than any previously recorded was picked out in the cannery at Nootka, and turned over to Dr. J. L. Hart.

This fish was sixteen and one-quarter inches in length from snout to the fork of the tail, or 351 millimetres in body length. The sex was female, and it was rather lean, weighing only one pound, one ounce. It was caught off Nootka Sound on August 2, this year. The specimen is now preserved in the museum of the Pacific Biological Station, Nanaimo.

These bargain fares, instituted in June and repeated in July and August, proved so popular that the management decided to offer the same inducements for residents of Vancouver Island this month.

SEMI-FINALISTS NAMED IN CANADIAN GOLF MEET

Emery's Fine Golf Features Play in U.S. Title Tourney

Oklahoma Contender Shows Great Form in Reaching Semi-Finals—Little Advances to Last Four—Faces Johnny Goodman Today—Nash Eliminated—Joe Lynch Other Survivor

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Staff Writer
CLEVELAND, Sept. 12.—Stealing home of the champion's sub-par thunder, Oklahoma's Walter Emery, skyrocketed today toward a collision with the California comet of golf, William Lawson Little, Jr., with a glittering "scoring streak as the United States amateur champion-ship has ever seen.

They are still a full thirty-six holes and two big hurdles apart, in opposite halves of the tournament draw, but they dominated the march into the semi-finals today and they are the choice of the tail birds to fight it out in the title round Saturday over the country club course.

Tomorrow, Emery, twenty-three-year-old University of Oklahoma lay student and former inter-collegiate champion, faces another newcomer to amateur heights, twenty-four-year-old Joe Lynch, of Boston, this year's Georgetown golf champion. Little, in the lower half, comes to grips with an old rival, Omaha's resourceful Johnny Goodman, former United States open king.

NASH ELIMINATED

Jack Nash, of London, Ont., the last of the Canadian quartette that started out hopefully last Monday, fell during the day. Unsteadily driving and jittery putting wiped out an early burst of brilliance, and Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, took Nash's measure by 4 and 3.

PATRICK WILL FIGHT CAREY

Heavyweight Champion of Canada to Show on Tonight's Mixed Card

Muzz Patrick, the lad who blazed a glorious trail over Canadian and Northwest title circles this year, will meet the Dominion heavyweight crown, British Columbia honor, and then the P.N.W. title, will display his punching powers this evening in the feature event on the weekly Mount Stephen Athletic Club's mixed boxing and wrestling programme. Patrick will fight an exhibition match against Rex Carey, 155-pound local glove expert. With this attraction as the headline, another bumper crowd is expected on hand. The opening bout will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Four mat bouts have been lined up by Matchmaker Louis Canlan and plenty of action is promised the fans. In the main grappling clash, Wally Edwards, the Cedar Hill "Wildcat" will match holds with Reggie Hopkins in what should be a fast and rough tussle.

IN SEMI-WIND-UP

The semi-wind-up grappling bout will match Pete Tyson and Rudy Loeffler, Y.M.C.A. members. They will meet at 135 pounds, and are scheduled to battle four 4-minute rounds.

In another 135-pound-class bout, Jack Lacey and Alec Gardiner will battle four 4-minute rounds. The only other wrestling match will bring together Young Gus Sonnenberg and Young Ernie Arthur in the ninety-pound class. They will go three 4-minute rounds.

Three boxing matches will complete the card.

George Gauthiers and Billy Thorburn will meet at seventy-five pounds.

Jerry Wilson will meet Ralph Simmons at eighty pounds.

Red Knowles and Young Duval will battle in the eighty-pound class.

Calcan, matchmaker, and referee, will act as the third man in the ring.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

In eight or ten years Victoria has not seen such baseball. The Vancouver-Spokane, Northwest league pros, in their match here yesterday, gave local fans the best in their repertoire. The Beavers' win by one run in the latter part of the last inning was most popular, the crowd—the largest that has thronged the grandstand of the Royal Athletic Park this season—standing in a mass and applauding the sturdy representatives of the terminal city. The score was 6-5.

There were two especially eventful innings. The first and the fourth. In this, Spokane secured three runs, which their previously-acquired two, made them feel absolutely secure and confident, and in a way dampened the ardor of the horde of Vancouver fans looking on. But the last word had not been spoken, for there was another batting rally, and this time Vancouver was on the big end. This occurred in the sixth, and beyond a question, that thrilling evening inning will be remembered for long by local lovers of the game. It was about as hard to follow the rapid

Detroit Slugger Moves Into Runner-Up Position in American Loop

(By the Associated Press)
The members of the Big Six were able to make only four hits among them yesterday and not one could add as much as "padding" to his average. Hank Greenberg and Arky Vaughan made the best showings as they didn't lose. Greenberg hit twice in four attempts and gained sole possession of second place in the American League. Vaughan had one hit in three times up. The other blow went to Gabby Hartnett, who made four trips to the plate and lost only one point. The other three dropped three points each.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Genius of Hungary—Jokai Mor (1825-1904), Hungarian patriot, statesman, novelist, poet and sculptor, is one of the most prolific writing geniuses of all time. For sixty-six years he wrote 30,000 words daily. He edited four newspapers at the same time and wrote 400,000 letters. His novels are in a class by themselves. He was also a Member of the Hungarian Senate and a first-class officer. When he celebrated his golden anniversary as writer in 1893, 3,932 cities and towns of Hungary bestowed on him the freedom of the city. The Government published his collected works and every adult Hungarian bought 100 volumes. In his youth, he was condemned to death for revolutionary activities against Austria. An ingenious ruse on the part of his wife saved him from the hangman's noose.

MONTREAL WOMAN IN GREAT WIN AGAINST CALGARY CONTENDER

Mrs. Dagenais Plays Brilliant Golf in Canadian Tournament to Beat Mrs. Roy-Horne—Ada MacKenzie, Mrs. Sweeney and Mrs. Phillips Triumph—Semis are Set for Today

By EVERETT GRAMME
Canadian Press Staff Writer
JERICHO GOLF AND COUNTRY CLUB, VANCOUVER, Sept. 12 (AP).—A happy-go-lucky little matron from Montreal reached into her bag of clubs today and pulled out the most amazing assortment of feminine golfing shots ever uncoined by a native Canadian over a British Columbia course.

Petite Mrs. Joseph Dagenais, who smiles when she does a shot and laughs when she makes a spectacular one, marched over the rain-soaked Jericho links in a steady downpour to lead two Toronto sisters and one from British Columbia into the semi-final round of the twelfth Canadian women's open golf title.

The sharpshooting Montrealer disposed of Mrs. Roy-Horne, of Calgary, in a match that ended on the sudden sixteenth green, 3 and 2, but she had to call on all her links wizardry to do it. Mrs. Dagenais finished the sixteen holes in even women's figures, while Mrs. Horne was a scant stroke over.

Both cards were liberally sprinkled with birdies, but it was a sparkling eagle three on the 387-yard third green that started Mrs. Dagenais on the road to victory and she followed up by taking the next three holes to end the match.

CALGARY WOMAN LEADS

After halving the first hole Mrs. Horne jumped into the lead with birdies on the next two, while Mrs. Dagenais had par four of the Montrealer had a par five on the fourth to cut the lead to one, and after halving the next, carded two par fives to lead by one hole. She went one-over on the short eighth, however, and Mrs. Horne's three squared the match.

They halved the ninth in birdie fours and the tenth in par fours, but a birdie four on the eleventh again gave Mrs. Horne the advantage, with the twelfth halved.

Mrs. Horne sank an eight-foot putt for a birdie four on the thirteenth but it wasn't good enough. Her opponent chipped fifty feet from the green for an eagle three.

The Montrealer holed out the next two holes in par fours and her approach shot that landed six inches from the pin gave her another birdie on the sixteenth. Mrs. Horne had fives on the fourteenth and fifteenth and was down in even figures on the last hole.

Ada MacKenzie, pre-tournament favorite for the title, and Mrs. Eric Phillips, of Toronto, and Mrs. S. C. Sweeney, veteran Vancouver shot-maker, joined Mrs. Dagenais in the semi-finals.

WINS AT TWENTIETH

Mrs. Phillips won into the next to title round after a nip-and-tuck twenty-hole battle with Mrs. A. MacAllister, of Vancouver.

The Toronto player lost the first two holes, but a birdie three on the third cut the deficit to one. She lost the fourth to a par five and went three down on the short eighth to Mrs. MacAllister's birdie two after they had halved the fifth, sixth and seventh. A par on the ninth cut Mrs. Phillips' deficit again to two and she took the tenth with a par four. They halved the next four holes.

Both found trouble on the fifteenth but Mrs. Phillips holed out in a while her opponent needed seven and the match was square. They alternated on the next two holes and halved the eighteenth to send the match to the nineteenth, where both carded fives.

Mrs. Phillips won the match on the twentieth with a five, while Mrs. MacAllister found a trap on her second and needed a six.

Mrs. Sweeney, lone Westerner left in the title picture, rallied after dropping the first three holes in her match with Mrs. MacAllister to win one up.

They stroked over the next six holes, halving three. Mrs. Sweeney won two of the other three and dropped one to reach the turn two down. She won the tenth, dropped the eleventh, then took the next three to go one up for the first time.

A trap cost the Vancouver veteran the fifteenth. They halved the next but Mrs. MacAllister won one over par on the seventeenth and bowed out of the tournament when she missed a fifteen-foot putt on the eighteenth and halved it in par fours.

Mrs. MacKenzie played steady golf to win 4 and 3 from Mrs. C. J. Woerner, of Los Angeles, surviving American shotmaker.

TORONTO STAR ADVANCES

The Toronto side was three up at the end of the sixth as a result of even figures on the first five holes and a halved sixth in sixes. She lost the seventh when Mrs. Sweeney stymied eight inches from the cup by Mrs. Woerner's curling putt, and also the short eighth when she overdrove the green and took four. They halved the ninth to make the turn with Mrs. MacKenzie one up. They halved the tenth, but a birdie four put the Torontonians two up on the eleventh and a par three added another hole to her advantage on the twelfth. The next two holes were halved and the match ended

GRIDDERS TO OPEN SEPT. 21

V.A.C. and Meralomas Ready for Opening of Football Season

VANCOUVER, Sept. 12 (AP).—Vancouver Athletic Club, Meralomas, traditional rivals of the now defunct "Big Four" will open the British Columbia Canadian Football Union's "Big Three" season at Athletic Park with a game on September 21. It was announced today by President A. T. Lowe.

The schedule of the league, which became known as the "Big Three" with the withdrawal of a team from the University of British Columbia, calls for six games, one of which will be played under lights on October 16.

North Shore, the third team, which has been crippled through loss of regulars at last season, will play as many juniors as are available. This was made possible through amendments to the constitution of the British Columbia Union, which will also allow each team to have twenty-four men in uniform for league games.

A referees' school will be instituted to provide competent officials.

Old Country Soccer

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP).—Queen's Park Rangers defeated Brighton, 2-2, in a Third Division, Southern Section, soccer game played here today.

In a Northern Section fixture Carlisle United and Halifax Town played a scoreless draw on the former's ground.

ABERDEEN IN HARD MATCH

Unbeaten Scottish Eleven Clashes With Airdrieonians Tomorrow

GLASGOW, Sept. 12 (P)—Airdrieonians hope to be the first team to lower Aberdeen's colors in Scottish League football. The Dons and the Rangers are the only unbeaten sides in the First Division, though each has drawn one game. While Aberdeen is up against a tough proposition at Airdrie, Saturday, the champions are expected to keep their slate clean at Edinburgh, where they oppose Hibernians.

Following a mid-week victory over Ayr United, Airdrie, babe of the major league, is likely to put up a hard battle against Hamilton Academicals, who have indulged in some heavy scoring lately. Celtic, at home against Albion Rovers, should have little difficulty in consolidating its position on the third rung of the league ladder, while Heart of Midlothian may gain some ground at Ayr.

OTHER MATCHES

The Athletic victory last Saturday delighted the fans at Dunfermline, and on Saturday Queen's Park will be visitors. The amateurs near the bottom of the table, are likely to come away empty-handed. In other games, Dundee meets Clyde; Motherwell are at home to St. Johnstone; Partick Thistle to Kilmarnock; and Third Lanark to Queen of the South.

Interest increases in Second Division doings with defeat of Falkirk, St. Mirren and Morton last Saturday. St. Bernard's crept up into the first place as a result of their back-sliding. On paper, Morton has the hardest job on Saturday, being scheduled to play Forfar Athletic. St. Mirren play East Stirling, while Falkirk opposes Leith Athletic and St. Bernard's meets Cowdenbeath. The leaders are all playing at home.

"But officer," she protested when he ordered the removal of her small car from the parking place she had selected, "it is in nobody's way and, after all, this is only a cul-de-sac."

"It doesn't matter," the constable replied, "what kind of a car it is, you can't leave it here, Miss."

U.S. GOLFERS BEAT CANADA

Captures Annual Seniors' Match by One-Sided Score of 30 to 2

RYE, N.Y., Sept. 12 (P)—A spry band of United States senior golfers gave fifteen Canadian veterans a bad trimming in the annual Duke of Devonshire Trophy match here today. The final team tally was 30 to 2, the lone point on Canada's side resulting from a sparkling round by the venerable George S. Lyon, of Toronto.

The patriarch of Canadian putterdom needed a stroke for each one of his years—seventy-seven—to the course and take the two points on the Nassau system by downing Frederick S. Snares, the United States captain. Otherwise, the Dominion team members were unable to score, although two of the matches ended in draws.

It was the fifteenth American triumph in the competition of the greybeards. Canada won in 1913, her only victory. Two years have produced stalemates.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 12 (P)—Wilmer Allison, the thirty-one-year-old Austin, Tex., veteran, who about a month ago was on the verge of retiring as a singles player after a dismal European campaign, won the United States tennis championship today.

An unsuccessful finalist a year ago, Allison smothered Sidney Wood, Jr., of New York, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3, in a match that was contrastingly dull from a competitive standpoint in comparison with his brilliant semi-final triumph yesterday over the defending champion, Fred J. Perry, of England.

GLIDER RECORDS

THE WORLD'S RECORDS FOR GLIDERS ARE ALL HELD BY GERMANY, THE HOME OF GLIDING. THE DURATION RECORD WITH RETURN TO POINT OF DEPARTURE, 36 HOURS 35 MINUTES WAS MADE BY KURT SCHMIDT AUG. 3 AND 4, 1933 AT KORSCHENRUH, EAST PRUSSIA.

THE ALTITUDE RECORD OF 14,189 FEET WAS MADE BY HEINRICH DITTMAR ON FEB. 17, 1934 AT CAMPO DOS ALFONSO'S IN BRAZIL.

THE DISTANCE RECORD WAS SET BY HEINRICH DITTMAR ON SEPT. 27, 1934 WHEN HE SAILED FROM THE WASSERKUPPE, GERMANY TO LIBAN, CZECHO-SLOVAKIA A DISTANCE OF 233 MILES.

That a motorless airplane should fly 233 miles without landing, stay aloft for thirty-six hours or soar to over 14,000 feet is almost inconceivable. Such feats are possible for two principal reasons: efficient aerodynamic design of the sailplanes, as these soaring gliders are known, and suitable weather and terrain aloft by maneuvering in the rising medium. On distance flights, the sailplane is launched into these rising currents and gains altitude until a hop can be made to the nearest rising thermal current which is indicated by the little flat-bottomed puffy clouds which dot the sky on warm sultry days. Here the distance sailer rides the aerial elevator until he has height sufficient to permit a hop to the next thermal, and so on.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

WHY WE SAY OF A PERSON THAT HE HAS SCRUPLES. Jeremy Taylor's definition of a scruple as "a great trouble of mind still as much in order as it was in days of Cicero, who also used it figuratively in the sense of a cause of anxiety or uneasiness. Figuratively, because scruple, intrinsically is from the Latin scrupulus, meaning a little rough stone or pebble. The analogy of course is between the sharp, pointed stone that hurts the foot, for instance, in walking, and the minor prickings that assuage the conscience.

In passing, it is interesting to note that one of the first etymological developments was the acquisition by the word scruple of the significance of weight—that is, 1-24 of an ounce apothecary's measure—presumably the weight of a small pebble. Thus in Barrow's book, "Physick," published in 1596, we find, "A scruple is twentie barley cornes." Also, as recently as 1843, in Watson's "Lectures on Physic," "It consists of twelve of mercury mixed with lard, in the proportion of two scruples to the ounce."

RAIN SPOILS DAHLIA SHOW

Melville Mayhew Secures Award of Merit for Best Bloom

Yesterday's rain somewhat spoiled the opening of Victoria's Dahlia Society's show in the Main Building at the Willows Fair. With many blooms spoiled by the rain, there was a very small entry list.

It was interesting to note the number of Lady Penzance type of dahlias in the show this year. This locally-developed variety has been gaining in popularity ever since its introduction, and it was with this variety that Melville Mayhew, for the second year in succession, won the coveted award of merit for having the best bloom in the show.

In fact, Mr. Mayhew and George Smithurst carried off the prizes in most classes.

There were some fine seedlings shown, and many of the smaller variety dahlias were prominent. Non-competitive displays somewhat made up for the lack of competitive interest, and in these displays were shown some very fine blooms of the larger type.

The dahlia show will be in progress for the remainder of the week, and this section, together with the other floral displays make the Main Building a gay scene.

RAIN HELPS IN FIGHTING FIRES

SOOKE, Sept. 12.—A fire which broke out on Monday has been threatening the home of Mrs. Baker-Ashford on Point Road.

With the fire fanned by a high wind, the situation looked so hazardous that all the furnishings of Mrs. Baker-Ashford's new home, recently completed, were removed to the home of Mrs. R. Seymour, of this district.

Several fires on Muir's Mountain, which had been brought under control over a week ago, had broken out afresh, and spread through the brush. A gang of twenty men, under D. G. Porteous, fire warden, were kept busy today's showers have helped to end the danger.
